

ALAN JACKSON IF LOVE WAS A RIVER

If love was river
And I was a drowning man
Would you get in the water
Would lend me a hand
If love was river
Would sit on the land

If love was a mountain
High above this town
Would climb to the top
Would you never look down
If love was a mountain
Would go around

Love may only knock so many times upon your door
And Heaven only know if it'll come back anymore

If love was firefly
Sitting in your hand
Would laugh when it twinkled
Let it go again
If love was firefly
Would you understand

If love was a party
Everyone you know
Would dance if I asked you

Would you smile and say no
If love was a party
Would you even go

Love may only knock so many times upon your
door
And Heaven only know if it'll come back anymore

If love was a fast train
On a one way track
Would turn in your ticket
Would you never look back
If love was a fast train
Would you even pack
